Volunteer Programs

WHALE WATCH

Assist the public in viewing the annual gray whale migration. Docents are at Bodega Head on weekends January to May.

SEAL WATCH

Help protect the harbor seals in Jenner at the mouth of the Russian River during the pupping season (March to Labor Day).

ARMSTRONG REDWOODS TOUR GUIDES & ENVIRONMENTAL EDUCATION PROGRAM

Become intimate with our unique redwood grove by leading nature walks through Armstrong Redwoods, or by teaching children about the wonderful ecology of this ancient redwood forest.

ARMSTRONG & JENNER VISITOR CENTERS

Interact and inspire visitors from all over the world by staffing our visitor center at Armstrong Redwoods or on the beautiful Russian River estuary in Jenner.

TIDEPOL PROGRAMS

Introduce park visitors to the amazing life in the intertidal zone by leading school groups on tidepool explorations. Roving Naturalists are also available on low-tide weekends to ensure the preservation of the fragile intertidal resources.

WILLOW CREEK WATERSHED EDUCATION PROGRAM

Inspire students in an exciting watershed field study program where they learn about the life cycle of salmon and attributes of healthy watersheds.

SONOMA COAST ENVIRONMENTAL LIVING PROGRAM

Live the cultural history of the Sonoma Coast by stepping back in time. This new docent-led program for students in grades 4 - 7 offers insights into the natural history as it pertains to our cultural resource heritage.

SONOMA COAST DOCENTS

Docents lead hikes and educate visitors about natural and cultural resources on Sonoma Coast and in the Willow Creek Watershed. Hikes include topics such as: wildflowers, plant identification, geology and archeology.

STEWARDSHIP OPPORTUNITIES

Volunteers are needed for Marine Debris monitoring and beach cleanups. Our Sonoma Coast Citizen Action Team works on trails, restoration projects, and collects water quality monitoring data in the Willow Creek watershed. Volunteers also work on trails monthly at Armstrong Redwoods.

Orientation and Training Seminars offered annually.
